

Get It Quick Over the Net

www.copyright.gov ◀

What Can I Do on the Copyright Office Website?

- ▷ Register your basic claim to copyright
- ▷ View and download Copyright Office publications
- ▷ Search online records of registrations and document recordings from 1978 forward

To make the Copyright Office website work for you, click on the following items:

- ▷ Electronic Copyright Office to register a basic copyright online. When you file your application online, you pay a lower fee, and your application will be processed quicker than if you file using a paper application.
- ▷ Current Fees to find out about the charges for Copyright Office services
- ▷ Copyright Basics to read, download, or print general information on copyright
- ▷ Search Our Site to search the Copyright Office website
- ▷ Search Copyright Records to search the Copyright Office's online records
- ▷ Copyright Law to read, download, or print the copyright law
- ▷ Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) to read questions and answers about copyright and the Copyright Office
- ▷ Hot Topics or What's New to find out what is going on in the Copyright Office
- ▷ Publications to access historical documents relating to copyright
- ▷ Contact Us to email questions about copyright or to request specific forms and circulars. Or call the Forms and Publications Hotline at (202) 707-9100 and leave a recorded request for specific publications. The items you request will be mailed to you.

The Copyright Office mailing address is:

Library of Congress
Copyright Office—COPUBS
101 Independence Avenue SE
Washington, DC 20559-6304

