

I have had problems locating the copyright owner on some videos. In some cases they are owned by a textbook publisher who sells them to another company, and then that company discontinues them. In other cases it is simply that the video is no longer available, and no one is taking ownership. I can spend days on this sometimes. My reason for contacting them is usually for the purpose of closed captioning for the hearing impaired.

Thank you,

Jill Baker

AV Librarian

San Diego Mesa College