Comment:

I am a Canadian experimental filmmaker and I often re-use material which is public domain or released under the creative commons license. While this provides a great deal of content with which to legally work, my aim has often fallen short because of a potential copyright infringement. I usually end up using the material anyway, but the resulting film can't be released to a large public and must remain "underground".

Please make orphaned works become public domain. If you do, I will make a wonderful movie and add to the good of humanity. In the credits, I will thank you.
