Comment:

I am a member of a group that is interested in various aspects of knitted lace, including preserving and using older patterns. We run across copyright issues quite often and often cannot get access to lovely and valuable patterns because they were printed in the mid 1950's by companies that are no longer in existence or that have no interest in reprinting the patterns.

Even if we simply wanted to transcribe the pattern into modern format and provide it for free to others in our group we are unable to do so.

This would help us enormously.
