

Lorentson-Adam-20050314170004

To: Julie L. Sigall
Associate Register for Policy & International Affairs

Date: 03/14/2005

From: Adam Lorentson

Comment:

If the stories we hear are true, copyright exists to protect the rights of content creators. In the absence of a readily identified creator, copyright lacks that purpose.

Please do the right thing and follow that line of reasoning to its logical conclusion - that orphaned works ought not to be restricted from public use.